

Fredian Psychology

© 2007 by Ed Seykota

Rev: 10/16/2007 9:26 PM

Negative experiences often create false beliefs, which form our expectations that drive our present behavior. The cycle is repeated as our negative behavior reinforces and recreates our past experiences by creating new negative experiences. Here's where Fred comes in...If we are willing to change our minds, God will change our beliefs, and thus break the negative expectation, behavior cycle to create fresh positive experiences.